

Viv Smith, Charley White, and Ken Jacquest snow ploughing in the harsh winter of 1947. It is said that Viv, Charley, and Ken had their own method of snow ploughing which involved frequent stops at the Falcon Inn to "warm-up". It is alleged that this picture shows the result, with Ken being towed home lying on the snow plough, Charley watching over him, and Viv at the controls of the Caterpillar tractor.

EB165